SCHLEY'S REPORT.

The Baltimore's Commander Tells of the Outrage.

Washington, Oct. 23.—[By the Asso-

It is probable that this Government will await the outcome of the legal inquiry now in progress in Chile before making any move and that meanwhile precautions will be adopted to avoid any further collisions. Secretary Tracy and Gen. Foster had a conference with the President this afternoon and at its close Secretary Tracy dictated the following as the latest official information on the Coal heaver Panter and landsman Davidson were dangerously injured by assaults with clubs, stones and knives, and many other men were seriously injured by assaults. Thirty-five seamen were arrested by the public authorities and detained. The surgeons on the Baltimore are unanimously of the opinion that some of the wounds were inflicted by bayonets, thus showing clearly the participation of the police. The American sailors were without arms and defenseless. They were sober and innocent of sailors were without arms and defense-less. They were sober and innocent of any misbehavior. The President will Act Vigorously in Re-gard to Chile.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[By the Associated Press.] A special from Washington says that Capt. Schley has asked Secretary Tracy to have Admiral Brown come at once to Valparaiso and by his presence aid in seeing full justice done to the cowardly ruffians who murdered a sailos last week. It is now alleged that Boatswain's mate Regan was shot by a policeman. The dispatch asserts that Minister Egan will be instructed to demand reparation and that the Pres-dent has said to Tracy, "I mean to have no more of this business from any na-tion and the demand upon Chile must be peremptory."

There will be four cruisers at Valpa raiso when the demand is made.

Capt. Schley has informed Secretary Tracy that it has become impossible for American officers to go ashore withous being insulted and that hereafter they mean to go armed and resent insults in a proper way. "We are losing our self-respect by permitting these things" says Schley. "And the younger officers are wild with rage and cannot be much longer restrained."

WHY BALMACEDA SUICIDED. He Could Not Trust the Junta and Would

Not Imperil His Friend. NEW YORK, Oct. 23 .- [By the Associ ated Press.] A special cable from Valparaiso says that another letter written Balmaceda has turned up. It was written to his three brothers. He save he cannot longer jeopardize his friend, the Argentine Minister, by remaining at the legation. He had intended giving himself up to the Junta, but owing to a belief that its leaders would respec nothing he has changed his mind and will make a personal sacrifice. He says he has left for publication a document that will prove of historical use and that through it Europe will comprehend his conduct.

In an interview with Morris, president of the clearing house, this morning in regard to Gar cia's defalcation, he said: "Eugene Garcia, paying teller of the Louisiana Bank, is a defaulter in the sum of $190,000. DONNELLY'S REPUTATION.

nearly all day.

Gen. de Luc was recalled and swore that Donnelly proposed to him to sell out to the Hastings and Dakota and divide the proceeds. Donnelly, being recalled, denied hav ing any such conversation, and charged De Luc with selling out the road to the Milwaukee and St. Paul road to the great loss of its builders. Donnelly's reason for not pressing his first suit was that he had no funds.

Then the examination passed to the alleged $50,000 bribe of the Memphis, El Paso and Texas road. Donnelly said: "The bill went through easily. Gen. John C. Frémont and Schmalley

I replied 'What is the stock worth?' and they said 'nothing.' It was a big temptation for a poor man and young man was that $50,000 due bill and $200,000 in stock. I wanted them to pay my expensive hotel bills, and after a time said I could not work any longer for them, as I was taking time and living at a hotel. Chinese Crossing the Border—The Floods in Tobasco. CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 23 .- [By the Associated Press. | A considerable number of Chinese are leaving this country daily for the United States. They cross the line at or near Brownsville, not far

TIM'S CASE.

All the Evidence in for the Contestant.

Searles Puts the Finishing Touches to His Testimony.

His Wife Trusted to His Generosity Toward Her Adopted Son.

The Proponents Now Have Their Inning-How Two Lawyers Managed the California Widow's Millions for a Consideration.

By Telegraph to The Times. SALEM, (Mass.,) Oct. 23.—[By the Associated Press.] At the opening of the Searles will case this morning Lincoln recalled Searles. Witness testified that at Mrs. Hopkins' request he first called in Mr. Stillman to look up the securities in October 1887, Witness testified to the visit of Stillman to Methuen before the last will was made. Mrs. Searles said she wished to leave all her property to witness and would provide for Timothy in her life time. In case anything happened to her she was willing to leave matters in witness's hands. She knew witness would be more generous to Timothy than she would. Witness further testified that during Mrs. Searles' last sickness he visited New York and while in conversation with Stillman referred to her condition and said if her condition were critical it would be well to transfer the South-ern Pacific and Improvement bonds and stocks so that in case of Mrs. Searles' death they should not lose their voting power. Stillman said he would attend to it. Witness denied most emphatically that he at any time attempted by himself or through others to in any way influence his wife in the disposal of her property. He never noticed anything to show that she was in any other than a strong mental condition.

Burley on cross-examination asked witness if he intended to say that he never had any private conversation in power. Stillman said he would attend withess if he intended to say that he never had any private conversation in regard to the disposal of her property. Witness replied "None."

Searles stated that in June 1887, he had property of his own amounting to $200,000. The cross-examination by Burley brought out nothing new. Witness knew of no memoranda additional to the will being left; at least he had not discovered any.

This concluded Searles's testimony, he having been on the stand for five days and sustained a most searching examination inro all his affairs.

Burley then called for the check books, showing checks to Stillman or Hubbard. This request the Court was not disposed to grant. Counsel for the will then tendered original copies of the letters which had been read for comparison and contestants rested their case for Timothy Hopkins.

Judge Harmon asked if any one else

Judge Harmon asked if any one else wished to be heard in opposition to the instrument and there were no resposes. Lincoln then called Gen. Hubbard of New York, who testified that he had known, Searles for some time prior to 1882, but had personally done no business for him. He first met Mrs.

1882, but had personally done no business for him. He first met Mrs.
Searles in the spring of 1888, but he had heard something of her matters in conversation with Stillman.
Gen. Hubbard gave in a general way a description of Mrs. Searles's property as consisting of some sixty different kinds of stocks and bonds. The property is such that anyone who attempts erty is such that anyone who attempts to attend to either one of the proper-ties, requires all of his time. Witness had a large and prosperous practice, and when Stillman came to him and said Searles wanted him to take the manage-ment of the property, if he would go in with him, he told him it was a serious matter, as it would in a short time at least involve the abandonment of his practice of the Finally he consented to take it up the him. The copartnership was suggested by Stillman, who had found that at attorpers they had met with rebuts in getting information necessary to cope with the questions before them, but as principals as well as attorneys they could insist on their rights to it. Witness knew that 5 per cent, would be much less than his professional income and finally after much discussional least involve the abandonment of his income and finally after much discusmoome and many after much discus-sion the copartnership as drawn was made as the most just, and reasonable arrangement.

At the afternoon session Gen. Hub-bard testified that the management of bard testified that the management of the estate had taken nearly all his time for the last year and a half and fully as much of Stillman's. He saw Mrs. Searles about June 5, 1888, and she wanted some one to manage her busi-ness who was near at hand. In the lat-ter part of May, 1890, witness went to Mrs. Searles and remarked that she ap-Mrs. Searles and remarked that she appeared to be drawing but little while Searles was drawing quite liberally. She asked if that was not right. Witness said yes, if she wished it so. She said that Searles paid all her bills and she wanted him to. She did not want to keep a bank account or have anything to do with matters of business. "Were any changes made in the record of title of the copartnership just before Mrs. Searle's death?" was asked the witness. "Yes, in the Southern Pacific and Pa-

"Yes, in the Southern Pacific and Pacific Improvement companies; both had been transferred to the partnership, but had remained on record as in the name of Mrs. Searles; they were transferred on the books of the company."

Witness had no personal knowledge of the wills, and had never attempted in any manner to influence Mrs. Searles in regard to making her will. Mrs. Searles always impressed him as a woman of alert mind, and she spoke as a woman of quiet, decided opinions when she spoke on business matters. Witness never advised keeping matters secret from Timothy Hopkins.

SAVINGS BANKS' TAXES.

Judge Wade Says That They Must Pay up.

The Defendants' Demurrer Sustained in Every Instance.

The City has Power to Collect the Necessary Revenues.

The Main Features Fully Covered by the Charter-The Duties of the Assesso Fully Defined by the Law.

Judge W. L. Pierce of San Diego, sitting for Judge Wade in Department Three, yesterday, rendered a decision in the cases of the Los Angeles Savings Bank, Main Street Savings Bank and Security, Loan and Trust Company against City Assessor Hinton, sustaining the defendent's demurer in each instance in accordance with the following important opinion.

THE OPINION.

The demurrers in all of these cases must be disposed of under the same rules.

It is true that the complaint in the case of the Security Loan and Trust Company differs from the others in one particuliar. It does not, in reciting the corporate powers under plaintiff's articles of incorporation, declare in so many words, as do the others, that it was organized for the purpose of carrying on the business of a "savings and loan corporation;" nevertheless, it enumerates the powers with which such corporations are clothed by the Civil Code, (sec. 571 et seq.) together with other powers not inconsistent with its characteras a savings and loan corporation; and although it appears sufficiently from the complaint that it was so treated by the Assessor, does not seek to negative the fact that it was and is exercising such powers. In each of the complaints it is alleged that the Assessor proceeded under the charter of the city of Los Angeles and plaintiff in his brief, in order to attack the validity of the assessments, maintains that the city of Los-Angeles has no legally qualified assessor. It is not doubted but that the city is chartered by a constitutional power to levy taxes, hence has no legally qualified assessor. It is not doubted but that the city is chartered by a constitutional method, but it is claimed that there is no general law—no statute enacted by the Legislature—enabling corporations organized under freeholders' charters to assess for taxes. It would be indeed strange if the Constitution, under the provisions of which the inhabitants of the city obtained its charter, and which declares that such charter "shall become the charter, and any amendments thereof, and all laws inconstituted as contemplating the legal existence of a body corporate and politic possessing important police powers, and the power of incurring great expenses for municipal purposes, but with no power to impose taxes on the inhabitants of a city for municipal purposes (art. xi, sec. 12.) and it would be absurd to say that t under the provisions of the general law in force at the time.

It is also maintained by the plaintiff that section 3617, Political Code, which provides that the daposits of savings and loan corporations shall not be assessed to the creditors or owners thereof, does not say that they shall be assessed to such corporations. Nevertheless, the section does say that for the purpose of taxation such deposits shall be deemed and treated as an interest in the property of such corporation, and it would be difficult to construe the meaning of this provision as anything more or less than a declaration that they should be assessed to the corporation.

The point on which plaintiff's strongest argument is based is, briefly stated, that this section of the Political Code is intended argument is obsect is, orienty stated, that this section of the Political Code is intended to apply only to deposits which in fact still belong to the depositor, and the corpora-tion only acts as his agent in caring for, inbeiong to the depositor, and the corporation only acts as his agent in carring for, investing and loaning them. However, if it were attempted to assess these deposits to the depositor, he would very promptly reply that they were deposited with a savings and loan corporation, and could not be assessed to him. To plaintiff's argument he would reply that the law makes no exception to deposits which drew interest or were subject to his check, and as all statutes and proceedings for the collection of taxes are subject to strict construction he was clearly exempt; and the court would be compelled to hold with him.

The law was not intended to be so framed as to make deposits with these corporations assessable either to the individual depositor or to the corporation, in the alternative, according to the manner in which the corporation carried on its business. If the corporation has accepted deposits upon poration carried on its business. If the corporation has accepted deposits upon terms that leave it ho opportunity to secure indemnity for the burdens legally assumed, on behalf of the depositor, it must endure the consequences. In construing the statute, the court cannot assume that any particular corporation previously organized was the only kind of a savings and loan corporation to be affected, but must take the act of the Legislature as expressing its plainest and most covious meaning, and as applicable to all corporations incorporated for the purpose. In whole or in part, of doing the business of savings and loan corporations.

The demurrers are each sustained, with ten days leave to plaintiff to amend.

W. P. Wade, Judge.

OUR ENLARGED AND IMPRO THE latest report about the Salton Sea is that it continues to subside, and in another month will be a dried up thing of the past.

CHILE has finally refused to grant safe conducts to the refugees at the United States Legation at Santiago, and Uncle Sam's relations with the Innta are becoming more strained than ever.

PAT KILLEN, the bruiser who knocked out Bob Ferguson in a fight a week ago last Sunday, has himseif been knocked out for good and all. In this last contest whisky was the bottle-holder, erysipelas the time-keeper, jim-jams offlciated as referee and death did the slogging. There was no betting, as it was evident from the outset that Killen wasn't in it.

THE Nashville (Tenn.,) Banner is a Democratic paper, but it is not possessed of the effervescent hopes of our contemporary, the Herald. It says It is well to refrain from indulging too buoyant hopes of the election of Camp-bell in Ohio. While we would be glad to see him defeat McKinley, the indications of such a result are not very encouraging."

DURING one month, closing with October 15, $15,000,000 in gold came to the United States from Europe. There is more on the way, and millions vet to come every week of the year. WHEN the Czar of Russia sets the example of eschewing all public amusements in order to save money for his famine-stricken subjects, gives 3,000, 000 roubles from his private purse and issues an appeal to the members of the nobility and the landed gentry to sub-scribe for the fund, it begins to look as though he had some of the milk of human kindness after all. Prominent characters - kings and things - are sometimes painted blacker than they really are.

NATURAL gas is about going out as a main reliance, and fuel gas of one sort or another is coming in. In Ohio, Sid. ney, Troy, Piqua, Springfield and Dayton are threatened to be cut off from their supply of natural gas. It sells at 10 cents per thousand cubic feet, but is running out. Wheeling is also running out. Gas is used at Youngstown from wells sixty-two miles distant. A new gas well at Harrisville. W. Va., throws a jet 250 feet high from a two-inch pipe. Pittsburgh manufacturers are getting ready to make their own gas. The pressure of a good many gas wells in Western Pennsylvania has fallen from 640 pounds to 120 pounds.

THE Sacramento Record-Union comes very near pointing out where and how cisco's shoe pinches when it says: A'The great bulk of the commerce carried to the Pacific Coast comes by rail. San Francisco is on the very western verge of the continent. The rail routes run through the country for which San Francisco aspires to be the distributing center. The problem is to carry merchandise from eastern centers to San Francisco at a rate so low that the city by the sea will be enabled to become the distributing point back over the very routes once traversed by the traffic and into the territory through which the traffic has been carried. This is San Francisco's problem. Hence the contortions of the Sar Francisco Traffic Association. As for this part of the State, we tried that of a deal once, when we were under the thumb of the railroad monopoly, and got more than enough of it.

Today Los Angeles closes an uncom monly busy week in public affairs. For six days the Sixth District Fair has been in full blast, with races of more than usual interest at the park and an agricultural and art display and baby show at Chamber of Commerce Hall. There were, besides, the State Convention of Irrigationists, the State Convention of the Farmers' Alliance. the convention of the People's party the convention of Apiarists, the orphans' fair, the visit of a delegation fron the National Convention of Librarians and the assemblages of Cahuenga fruit growers. All these affairs, as well as the ordinary run of happenings in this city, Pasadena, Pomona Santa Barbara and Ventura, and the telegraphic news of the world have been faithfully presented by THE TIMES. The proceedings of these assemblages have been given full and fair reports; and nothing in the news field has been neglected. In several instances reports have been so full and satisfactory as to call forth a general or special note of thanks. This is straight upand-up newspaper work, and The Times feels warranted in taking some credit to itself for covering the field during such an extraordinary pressure of events, and giving as usual, all the

There is an ancient fable of a fisherman who hauled from the depths of the sea a sealed box. He opened it, and a great shadowy genie issued therefrom, which immediately began to terrorize and menace him. That is exactly what the people of this country have done in opening the metaphorical receptacle which held railroad corporations in an inchoate form. The great shadowy monster is now dominating the power that brought it into existence We cannot hope to get it back into the box, and no other way of subduing or destroying it seems apparent.

If this evil should keep on growing until it becomes as great a menace to the country as was slavery in former times, it is possible that as extreme measures may have to be resorted to for its extirpation. The revolution may or may not involve the shedding of blood, but it is certain to bring about one result -emancipation. The coup de grace may be put in another form, which is more properly called confiscation.

The Vacant Postmastership.

A Washington dispatch concerning the Los Angeles postoffice intimates that an appointment will be made soon; that Van Duzen has been recommended by Congressman Bowers, but Shoulters having been put forward by Mayor Hazard and citizens, the inference appears to be drawn over on the other side that it is at present a case of quien sabe. Of a verity, neither person named should be appointed, and neither will be if the President and Mr. Postmaster-General Wanamaker consult the real wishes of the people of Los Angeles. As for Mr. W. W. Bowers of San Diego and his bull-in-a-China-shop tactics, his position in this matter is entitled to small respect. He has shown a mulish perverseness and a degree of private bias and personal ill-feeling in regard to the postmastership of the chief city of Southern California (which does not concern him personally) that badly comport with his proper duties as a Representative in Congress bound to consult his constituents impartially and in a spirit of self-abnegation so far as he himself is personally concerned. We repeat not the best man, nor even one of the best available men been named regularly. The cost ($1.30 a year) is a cant office by the Congressmen who claim the right to "control" an appointmere bagatelle, and no present could be more ment which it is the President's constitutional prerogative and lawful duty to make, and it is high time that the authorities at Washington woke up to the fact that the people of this city have rights which are entitled to respect. There will be no rise of consequence in the Colorado for four months, which can effect the Salton region, and by that time the desert winds will fill up the openings with sand, checking any further inflow. By Telegraph to The Times.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—[Copyright 1891.
by the New York Associated Press.]
Gladstone has revised the Home Rule Bill. The time when the scheme in de tail will be divulged depends upon the fate and character of the government's Irish local government ure. If a dissolution came now the measure would be published with such completeness as would leave the Conservatives no chance to say that the country has been deceived on any important point. When the general election does come, the issue will fought on definitely declared homerule lines. If the popular vote places Mr. Gladstone in power, the course thus adopted will paralyze the opposition. The House of Lords will not dare to reject the bill on the ground that a vote of the electorate has not been specially taken thereon. Regarding the principles of the new peasure, enough has been officially ascertained to state that it gives the proposed Irish legislatures fuller powers than did the bill of 1885. It retains the upper and lower houses of the Irish Parliament, vests the appointment of the judiciary in an Irish executive, and maintains a larger representation of Ireland in the imperial Parliament. The questions of financial relations and control of the police are also settled.

In the Cork election fight there is In the Cork election fight there is much partisanship. The friends of Redmond declare themselves confident of victory. They have no lack of funds, part of the money coming from America. The final hope of restoration of party unity rests with Michael Davitt. If he refrains from throwing his whole influence on the side of the McCarthyites and uses his personal power in a quiet policy of conciliation, he will in time reconstitute the Irish party. LONDON, Oct. 23.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Experiments were made in the creek in Portsmouth harbor yesterday with a protected boom invented by a naval committee. The boom consisted of six beams one foot square and forty feet long arranged with ends toward the enemy. toward the enemy. The spaces between the beams were too narrow to permit a torpedo vessel to pass through. The obstacle was solidified by ten steel hawsers intertwined among the beams and tautly attached to barges on either side. To prevent the impact of a tor-pedo boat by dipping the boom and en-abling it to glide over, another six-inch hawser was suspended six feet above the boom. The beams were armed with steel points and powerful spikes shaped like bulls' horns.

One of the swiftest torpedo boats in the British navy, the one lately com-manded by Prince George, was selected to attempt to pass the boom. The tor pedo boat was encased in a superstruct ure rising in the center and sloping to-wards the extremities in order to carry an elevated hawser over the hull and prevent the smashing of the fun-nel cand torpedo gear. The funnel was constructed so as to fall back if struck. The torpedo boat selected carried a lieutenant and four seamen, ose lives were insured by the Admi ralty. It dashed forward at a speed of fourteen knots an hour, striking the boom in the center. The boat mounted the first fence, smashing the boat amidthe first fence, smashing the boat amidships, but the anchor gear became entangled with the overhead hawser and stopped it. Even then the boat could have discharged torpedoes, but she was fatally crippled and remained fixed to the beam, her low compartments filled with water. The boat had impinged upon the iron horns and the bottom of the starboard side was ripped open. The engines being re-

The first big glove sale of the season takes place. Fourbutton real kid gloves, all colors, 50 cents per pair; tan mousquitaire real kid gloves, 65 cents per pair; a full assortment of sizes; not warranted, not fitted, not exchanged. Moderate profits gives you an advantage. The impression is going around that the trade of the house is taking a big bound upward, and it's true. Moderate profits in dress goods-sales in the dress goods department doubled over last season; moderate profits in the cloak department—sales more than quadrupled over last season; moderate profits in notions—the sales are away ahead of a year ago; moderate profits in muslin underwear and corsets—sales the most satisfactory since the boom. Every salesperson in the house will tell you the same story about their respective departments, and it is a fact. Ask our delivery clerk and he will tell you that double the packages are going out over the same period of last year. Better salespeople; more politeness; more freedom in showing goods; better attention on the floor; moderate profits in every department; better and larger stock. That's the whole story in a nutshell and the public notices all this.

Today you had better take advantage of our big kidglove sale, and if too busy to wait upon you promptly. spend your time to advantage in the largest cloak department in the city, or take a glimpse through our busy dress goods department. Ask the salespeople for a few prices; you don't need to buy; they are behind the counters to show goods and show lots of them, and they are willing and glad to do so. The salespeople in our dress goods depart. ment are wonderfully good natured.

FIFTH DAY OF THE RACES.

The Unfinished Trot Declared Off by the Judges.

Four Well-contested Events Made up Yesterday's Programme.

The Great Free-for-all Trot Today Monopolizing Attention.

The Four Cracks in the Pink of Condition and a Sensational Contest Promised -The Pool-selling Last Night.

A much larger crowd attended the races at Agricultural Park yesterday than was expected, and the enthusiasm was as great as on the first day.

At least 500 men stood around the dge's stand at 1 p. m., as it had been amored that sensational developments had come to light about the postponed race of Thursday, in which Driver Doyle and Miss Monroe figured so con-spicuously. When the bell rang the great crowd became silent, and Presid-ing Judge Newton made the following uncement:

announcement:
We, as judges of these races, have listened to the different complaints that have been made of this race, and we have, after mature meditation, for the honor of this track; and for the protection of the people, determined to declare this race off, and all

SECOND RACE. The next event on the card was a half mile dash for all ages. A great deal of money went into the pool-box on this race. Tim Murphy was the favorite, and as all the horses were known to be and as all the horses were known to be very fast, and three of the best riders of the State had the mounts, it was expected that the trio would make a sensational race, but to the great disappointment of the crowd after the flag sent these off. Lida Ferguson, bolted and jumped the fence. Tim Murphy and Jim Duffey made a close run, however, Jim Duffey coming under the wire first by nearly a length, but the rider of Tim Murphy made a complaint of a foul, and the race was given to Tim Murphy.

THIRD RACE.

For the third race, one and one-sixteenth miles, Gladiator and El Rayo entered. Gladiator sold for $30 and El Rayo for $10. The horses were sent off to a good start. At the first attempt the flag fell and the two horses were off, and they ran the best race of the week, for they were nose and nose all the way around and the finish was so close that the judges decided it a dead heat. Time, 1:50 14.

El Rayo made a wonderfully good showing, for he was conceding eighteen pounds to Gladiator, and after such a heat it was thought that it was impossible for El Rayo to win the run off. At 4 o'clock, however, the two horses the first attempt. They ran to the first quarter well together, from which point El Rayo made the running, and he led by two lenghts all the way around and won the heat with lots to spare. The excitement over the great four-cornered race between McKinney, Frank M, Silas Skinner and Wanda reached a climax last evening, and the scenes in the pool-room baffle description. Hundreds crowded into the rooms and when Tom Rodman called for bids Wanda sold for $25, and Silas Skitmes, Frank M. and McKinney $20 each. The betting soon settled down with Frank. At the beginning of the season, Wanda swept everything before her,

The former won a heat and thousands of dollars went into the pool box on him. but Silas Skinner was a great horse that day. and all the inside facts will be given to the public. Dr. Wise is taking an active interest in the case and intends to go to the bottom. It has been learned that at 1 o'clock yesterday morning parties came with Miss Monroe to a blacksmith shop and that those who had charge of the mare awoke the blacksmith and said that they needed him to shoe a horse. A candle was lit, the blacksmith was ordered to take the mare's shoes off, to cut herfect down and a round pair of shoes were substituted. The blacksmith was well paid for his services and the mare was taken back to her stall. The proprietor of the blacksmith hop heard of the shoeing at midnight and he came the shoeing at midnight and he came down to the track and told the judges what had passed. He said that if he had been at home he never should have allowed it, and he was much incessed to think that his man had shod the mare under suspicious circumstances. Doyle. the trainer of Miss Monroe, says that he knew nothing of the affair, that he had ordered his boys to take the best care of the mare during the if necessary to remain up all night with her. The baby show at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning was a screaming success. There were fully 150 babies present, ninety of whom The main hall was transformed into a temporary nursery, and the glories of other displays faded before the attractions of babyhood. There were blonde babies and brunette babies, fat bables and thin babies, pale babies and rosy babies, laughing babies and crying babies, babies with curly hair and straight hair and with no hair at all. The mothers with babies under 1 year of age occupied the stage, and those with the 2-year-olds the space immediately in front. The babies were happy and contented for the first home and laughed and cooed with infantile glee, but as the afternoon wore on and the crowd and heat increased shrieks and yells rent the air and a symphony of infantile cries made the hall echo. But the mothers were heroic, and for four mortal hours stood the test while awaiting the decisions.

was an extremely difficult one. It is not to be supposed that anyone was at all anxious for the honor. It was rumored, indeed, that an ocean steamer lay at San Pedro ready to sail away with the judges to the North Pole as soon as the verdicts were rendered. Even with this prospect of escape no one was willing to perform the delicate service. A compromise was finally effected, however, and three ladies consented to act, providing they could do so clandestinely, so several ladies accompanied them to the stage and together the party made the rounds, all taking notes and no one knowing which were the real judges. Superintendent were the real judges. Superintendent Wiggins, C. M. Wells and Mr. Loyd of Santa Barbara were also conspicuous on the stage and were accused of hav-ing a voice in the decision, all of which they strenuously denied.

The baby who won the carriage, Ellen McKee, was a beautiful child of 10 months, with large hazel eyes. It was 5 o'clock before the last wailing infant left the hall and Superintendent Wiggins and Secretary Willard heaved the final sigh of relief.

The attendance during the day and evening far eclipsed that of any day of the fair. The special attraction this evening will be the singing of the Euterpean Quartette. May, second tenor; H. S. Williams, baritone; F. W. Wallace, basso. They will sing several pieces, among them the famous and popular "Menu" of Zollner.

Reception Tendered the Visitors at the City Hall Last Evening.

Addresses by Mayor Hazard and Presiden Dobinson—Response by Presiden Green on Behalf of the Guests.

The reception which was tendered last evening at the rooms of the public library to the visiting members of the American Library Association was a gratifying success. The handsomely decorated rooms were thronged with ladies and gentlemen representing the wealth and culture of the city. At 8:30 o'clock the visitors were formally re-ceived in the Council chamber and brief addresses of welcome were made by G. A. Dobinson, president of the library board of directors, and Mayor H. T.

The formalities of the occasion then melted away and the Reception Committee presented the visitors individually, as opportunity offered, to the Los Angeles guests.

An orchestra stationed in the hall discoursed music throughout the evening.

An orchestra stationed in the hall discoursed music throughout the evening. Cake and lemonade were served, punch bowls being placed on tables in every room. Through the industry and taste of the young ladies employed in the library, assisted by members of the Ruskin Art Club, the rooms and halls had been beautifully decorated. A conventional design wrought out in palm leaves made an effective frieze above the wainscoting of the hall and spike the wainscoting of the hall and palms arched every entrance. The reference room was a bower of loveliness, pepper boughs fringing bookshelves and tables, desks and chandeliers. The letters "A. L. A." in white verbenas showed sharp and distinct from a bed of smilax on one of the reference tables; on another were the initials 'L. A.P.L." in purple agaratum. Fuchsias, roses, scarlet geraniums and smilax were arranged in the most exquisite taste. A stately sago palm guarded the entrance to the ladies' reading room. The decorations here were con-fined to tall papyrus, palms and smilax, with the Indian baskets of roses on the with the Indian baskets of roses on the fern-strewn table. A committee of ladies from the Ruskin Art Club had brought their skill to bear upon the arrangements of decorations in the gentlemen's reading room which was a symphony in yellow. Chrysanthemums were the only flowers used here, and against the fern-like background of pepper boughs, the effect was exceeding lovely. The visitors wandered at will through the beautiful flower-laden rooms, and no doubt the picture will haunt them months hence, when the eastern blizzards whistle through the leafless trees and they are in the fastnesses of a New England winter.

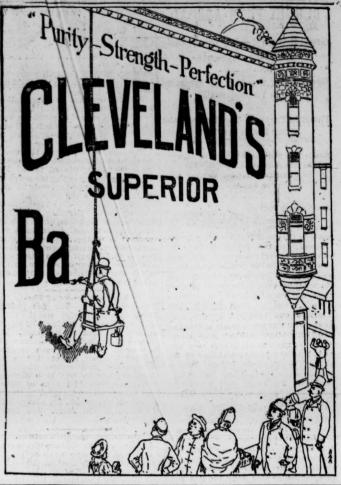

Today the party leave for San Diego, and will remain at the Coronado until Tuesday, when they will start for the East.

We have yet to hear of any fruitgrower who ever regretted that he gave his growing fruit a thorough thin-ning out, and we do know of many who are sorry each year that they did not do more thinning. All fruit canning men are unanimous in saying that the most thoroughly thinned orchards pay far better than the poor, small, un thinned ones.—[Pomona Progess.

The members of the Librarians' Associa-tion have come and gone, and been com-pletely conquered by Pasadena's beauty and the hospitality of her people. The special train of five coaches bearing the tourists arrived from Redondo a few minutes before 7 o'clock yesterday morn-ing, and was sidetracked a short distance below the Santa Fé station. The visitors were astir early, and by 0 o'clock they had assembled at Hotal Green, where the Recep-tion Committee, composed of members of the Board of Trade, was in waiting. A the Board of Trade, was in waiting. A number of carriages were soon at hand and the visitors were comfortably seated, whereupon the drive began, with Street Superintendent C. C. Brown in charge of the first carriage. The route was driven over, as outlined in yesterday's issue.

The first shalt was made at the Public Library. The main entrance was draped with bunting, while in the interior the tables were covered with a profusion of fruit and flowers, furnished for the most part by the school children. Laden down with these tokens the guests took fheir departure, after the handsome building had been thoroughly inspected and most favorably commented upon. The drive was then resumed and by the time all the sights had been visited it was nearly noon.

At 1;30 o'clock the visitors sat down to lunch at Hotel Green, which was prepared and served in the well-known style that has gained for the culinary department of the house an enviable reputation since Mr. Holmes assumed the management, W. U. Masters, president of the Board of Trade, presided with customary dignity and grace. On one side of him sat S. S. Green of Worcester, Mass., president of the Librarians. Association, and on the other Mrs. Merritt, Pasadena's popular librarian. At the conclusion of the lunch Mr. Masters extended to the visitors a cordial welcome in his usual felicitous manner. Mr. Green responded in a few brief but happy remarks, which evoked generous applause. Several other members of the party, including two or three of the fair sex, were also called upon and briefly responded. The company rose from the tables at 3 o'clock, and half an hour later the visitors left for Los Angeles on their special train. The names of those in the party have already appeared in full in The Timss. Just prior to their departure each member of the party was presented with a bouquet of choice flowers, plucked from Prof. Lowe's magnificent residence property and arranged under Mrs. Lowe's direction.

A pleasant feature of the drive was a visit to Carmelita, with its wealth of natudirection.

A pleasant feature of the drive was a visit to Carmellta, with its wealth of natural beauties, valuable library and objects of historic interest.

A TRIO OF POPULAR RAILROADERS Col. P. S. Backus, B. Brown and J. F. Caulbreth, three, by the way, as genial and Caulbreth, three, by the way, as genial and popular railroad men as ever followed in the wake of a locomotive, enjoyed the drive about the city yesterday. Col. Backus has made ten transcontinental trips with excursion parties since last March. He has charge of the Pullman cars composing the train and arranges all matters of transportation. Mr. Brown, who usually accompanies Col. Backus, is the special baggage agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Mr. Caulbreth is the popular local conductor of the Santa Fé. He will conduct the excursionists over all the lines of his scompany in Southern California. These gentiemen met many of our business men, and were unstinted in their praise of the scenery, drives and entertainment genererally.

EIGHT ON THE MOUNTAIN TOP.

A letter from Strain's Camp, of date October 22, says: Besides the many hundreds of tourists, pleasure-seekers and health-seekers who have solourned at Strain's Hotel, near the Mt. Wilson Ob-Strain's Hotel, near the Mt. Wilson Observatory, during the past summer, there have been other hundreds camping and tenting in a private way on mountain slopes and in the north-side canton below Strain's place, where there are springs or streams of clear, cold water. But now only two families remain, Dr. H. A. Reid and wife and H. N. Farey and wife of Pasadena, who are here taking a 'sick benefit' outing.

On October 15 Judge Eaton was here, in company with Messrs. Foster, Lincoln and Butler, apparently on some observations connected with the railroad interest. The dena. October 20 Dr. Reid and wife made ar Assadena.

The ground secured for a depot at the summit includes the point where the observatory stands, and is enclosed with a barbed wire fence, and a sign up which reads: "This nence, and a sign up which reads: "This enclosure belongs to the Pasadena and Mount Wilson Railroad Company. Be careful how you shoot." October 21 ahother party came—J. W. Scoville of Pasadena, one of the directors of this mountain railroad company, and his son, Mr. Hull, also of Pasadena.

On October 20 Dr. Reid and wife made an excursion along the mountain crest over two miles westward from the observatory, reaching at last the deep cleft or pass which extends through from the head of Eaton Cañon to West San Gabriel Cañon, where the railroad is to pass through from the south slope to the north slope of the Sierra Madra range, making one of the most picturesque and romantic railroad rides on the face of the earth. Mrs. Reid is a lady 65 years old, and there is no record of any woman having ever before gone over the last half mile of the passage which she made. They were seven hours in making the trip of a little over two miles and return. Much of the way they had to chop the trip of a little over two miles and return. Much of the way they had to chop out with a hand ax the thick, scrubby growth of buckthorn, chinckapin oak with prickly leaves, manzanita, etc. At many points the mountain crest was so sharp that a stone could be simply toppled one way or the other to determine whether it would roll, tumble and leap down thousands of feet into the great chasm of Eaton Cañon on the south side, of down the vast declivity of West. San Gabriel Cañon on the north side. The last half mile of this trip was over rocky depressions and towering crags and cliffs that seemed utterly impassable except to the most hardy and experienced mountain men yet this 65-year-old woman climbed it over and back in safety. In a place called the Summit thes forest they found party and esperence modinal men yet this 65-year-old woman climbed it over and back in safety. In a place called the Summit pine forest they found signs that some picnic excursion had been there in August, and a rock-piled promontory that projects westward from this forest had probably been visited by two or three adventurous women, but nothing beyond. In this forest they also found tracks of a large, heavy mountain lion, so plain and fresh that the animal must have passed along there the night before. They dented into the soil as deep as burro tracks, and these tracks continued as far as the climbers went and then on down into the precipitous mountain cleft, before mentioned as the railroad passway through the range. Mrs. Reid came to Pasadena from Des Moines, lowa, seven years ago as an invalid who could not live through another winter there; she has been much sick since, and there fore the regained health which enabled her to make this extraordinary mountain trip is one of the marvels of our Southern Cali ornia climate.

The Los Angelles Times of October

[The Times conveys the news of the world to Pomona 24 hours in advance of the San Francisco papers. The Pomona branch office and agency is at Armour's Pharmacy, Second street, where advertisements, orders for the paper and news items are received.]

Although there is no doubt that so parts of the city are in a bad sanitary condition, the city as a whole is in a much better condition as to drainage and sewerage than most towns in Southern California, and a committee from the Board of Trade is coöperating with the City Council to still further improve the sewerage system and make the place rank still higher as a heath resort and home place. There is no doubt about this being one of the healthiest towns in Southern California, and the citizens intend that it shall always be kept in a good condition for health.

Drinking Iced Water.

Dribling Iced Water.

It is a pity that with our fondness for copying Old World vices, small and great, we should not be willing to adopt some of their virtues as well. In the matter of drinking iced water the native American is a constant maryel to the European. At is a constant maryet to the European. At some of the hotels across the water designed to cater to our citizens abroad the notice is broadly published on menu cards, circulars and even in newspaper notices, "Ice water served for drinking purposes." The average German landlord has only lately because to understand that his Arceites. begun to understand that his American guests want water to drink, and he has by no means recovered from his astonished horror at the quantity consumed as a bevat a boarding house tells of coming down one cold morning to breakfast and asking one cold morning to oreastast and asking for a glass of water. The servent brought it, round eyed with wonder, but docile. As it was placed before the guest the presiding fraulein caught sight of the glass. "Oh!" she said quickly, "don't drink that: it is fresh from the faucet. Send it to me and I will warm it," and she reached for the hot water kettle. It was with difficulty the not water kettle. It was with dimently that she could be made to believe that per-sons over here drank iced water winter and summer alike. "I wonder you live at all," she commented feelingly, "if you treat your stomachs like that."—Her Point of View in New York "lines." View in New York Times.

The Crayfish.

There is no reason why crayfishes should not be introduced very profitably in the fresh waters all over the United States, and it is not unlikely that the fish commis and it is not unlikely that the fish commis-sion will take steps to accomplish this end. The crayfish closely resembles the lobster in appearance, its meat being much more delicate in flavor, and it would be very nice indeed if the streams and ponds in every state of the Union could be stocked with this huge species, which is very prolific, and can be made at home anywhere. An interesting burrowing variety of a small sort is very plentiful on the Potomac meadows near Washington.

It lives in holes with bottle shaped expended.

It lives in holes, with bottle shaped en-largements at the bottom, where the ani-mal can usually be found by digging. In the spring each one builds over its burrow a sort of chimney six or eight inches high, composed of lumps of mud, which it fetches and piles ingeniously on top of one another composed of lumps of mud, which it fetches and piles ingeniously on top of one another in the shape of a dome, closed at the top.— Washington Letter.

Something About the New Congressional Districts.

No Change Made by Collector Burke in His Tax Notices.

That Southern Pacific Right of Way

THE TIMES conveys news to Santa Bar-ara twenty-four hours ahead of the San tancisco papers. The branch office and gency is at No. 713 State street, where dvertisements, orders for the paper and ews items may be left.

Corrected maps of the newly apportioned Congressional districts of this State have been received by the county officials of this county. They represent a new deal all round in the way of changing the "lay of the land" in the several districts

Santa Barbara county is still in the Sixth which were formerly in the Sixth that are now in the Seventh District.

The present Sixth District is composed

THE TAX MATTERS AGAIN.

Notwithstanding THE TIMES has quoted the new law governing the payment of taxes this year, and pointed out wherein Tax Collector Burke's published notice does not conform to the late statute providing for two payments of taxes, no attention has been paid to the matter by the Tax Collector.

for two payments of taxes, no attention has been paid to the matter by the Tax Collector.

Since the former publication was made several prominent attorneys have been interviwed by The Times correspondent, and they all agree that the notice is insufficient.

Another feature of Mr. Burke's modus operandi is that in some of the postal card notices' which he has been mailing to taxpayers of this county, he not only does not mention the fact that taxes may be paid this year in two parts, without penalty, but actually misstates the time when the first installment shall become delinquent. To be explicit, some of the cards say that taxes will become delinquent on the first Monday in November next, whereas the law says that the first installment of one-half the taxes shall not become delinquent until the last Monday in November next.

The following, from the San Francisco Chronicle, shows conclusively that the Tax Collector there is doing all he can to inform the people as to the terms of the new law, while here it seems to be the intention of the Tax Collector Obrien, in speaking of the collection of municipal taxes under the provisions of the new law authorizing payments in two installments, says the plan is proving to be more acceptable to taxpayers generally than was at first anticipated. SOUTHERN PACIFIC RIGHT-OF-WAY.

The San Luis Obispo Tribune, at the close of a long and carefully written article on the railroad situation, has the-following:

"Asto Santa Barbara county, our information is not so satisfactory. From some of our committeemen, recently in San Francisco, we learn that although the agents of our sister county have confidently asserted that everything was inished, there are vet tracts of considerable extent through which the right-of-way has not yet been obtained, and further that what has been secured has not been delivered to the Southern Pacific. The Santa Barbara papers have on several occasions attacked this county for lack of effort in the matter. Now, if it is true, that matters are to be delayed for want of exertion in that county, where there was so little comparatively todo, the fact should be known. It would be advisable to appoint a committee to go to Santa Barbara and hasten matters to a satisfactory conclusion." SOUTHERN PACIFIC RIGHT-OF-WAY.

known. It would be advisable to appoint a committee to go to Santa Barbara and hasten matters to a satisfactory conclusion."

The real facts of the matter is that the railroad right-of-way through Santa Barbara county is practically obtained. The only right lacking is that through the Hazard ranch at El Capitan. Mr. Hazard agreed to donate right of way through his ranch providing the railroad company will erect a steel bridge over the El Capitan. This they have promised to do, but are unwilling to bind themselves in writing to that effect. Suit would long ago have been brought to condemn the right-of-way through this ranch without condition, but at the suggestion of the railroad company this has been delayed, for reasons best known to themselves. The opinion is rapidly gaining ground that the Southern Pacific is not acting in good faith with the citizens of this county, and that they first under one pretext and then another, are delaying the citizens in securing the right-of-way, that they may not be under obligations to begin railroad building before their bonds are sold. This is borne out by a recent reported interview with Col. Crocker in San Francisco, in which he says that railroad building will be inaugurated when the large ranches are subdivided. The people of Santa Barbara are beginning to inquire of what use is it that they have contributed rights way running up in value to more than $200.000, if the commencement of railroad building be not advanced, and if the railroad will only be completed when the company is convinced that it will pay immediately on driving the last spike. Any man of ordinary sense can readily understand that the Southern Pacific as well as any other company, will build whenever the proposed road will pay from its completion. The purpose of this county in donating so large an amount was to induce the constructed, by advancing enough to pay interest on the cost for a year or two, until beyond peradventure the road would pay.

NO Impurities in

Royal Baking Powder.

It is the only baking powder yet found by chemical analysis to be free from all impurities and absolutely pure. This perfect purity results from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes which totally remove all the tartrate of lime. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking powder except the "Royal."

Dr. Edward G. Love, formerly analytical chemist for the U. S. Government, who made the analyses for the New York State Board of Health in their investigation of baking powders, says of the purity and wholesomeness of the "Royal":

"I find the Royal Baking Powder composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substance.

The statement has been made in a San Francisco paper that A. D. Wilder has been called to New York by President C. P. Huntington, to be given an important position for the Southern Pacific Company there, but the Chron icle says Mr. Wilder has gone to Michigan to visit his relatives, and has no intention of going to New York nor of seeing Mr. Huntington.

It is now said that the rate reduction on canned and dried fruits, which was to have gone into effect on November 1. will not be effective on that date and shippers are exceedingly anxious.

Where is East Whittier?

It is 14 miles southeast of Los Angeles and is bounded on the rth and east by the Puente Hills, that break the cold north winds in winter and the dreaded Santa Anas in the summer; on the south by an unbroken stretch of beautiful valley and plain to the ocean 16 miles away, which is plainly visible from the upper portions of the East Whittier Tract; on the west by Whittier and the Lower San Gabriel Valley, the outlook on the west, southwest and south taking in the whole sweep of country from Los Angeles to Santa Ana.

What is East Whittier?

It is the old Ramirez Ranch subdivided into 5 and 10-acre tracts with a soil of great depth and richness that for years has raised great crops of wheat, barley and corn without any water. A region practically frostless, where heliotrope grows the year round. It is now the most desirable acreage property in Southern California for homeseekers. The property will not be sold to speculators, only to those who will at once improve it. These lands will soon be offered at $200 per acre; some extra choice locations at $250 per acre, with water, You buy the land and water together and not simply a water right, and you get the finest kind of both. Twenty-four Long Years Within the Walls of a Prison.

The Crime of Which Felipe Moreno was Convicted. The Man's Family Still Living in Los Angeles-A Child That He Has Never Seen—A Pathetic Story.

Felipe Moreno, a Mexican sent up for life for murder, if he lives until the 80th of next November, will have been in San Quentin Brison twenty-four years. So long has he been within those walls that his recollection of what the world was that he left is exceedingly vague and undefined.

Learning of him, and the thought of how long a period he has been in prison. excited the curiosily of a Los Angeles resident, who had read that his wife was yet alive and a resident of this city He accordingly wrote Moreno, asking about his wife, and in reply the follow ing brief but sympathetic letter was received, showing that the man is as a drowning child in the water-grasping at any and every straw to aid escape and freedom:

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Oct. 5, 1891.

Dear Sir: Your favor of the 1st instant to hand. I am indeed very much obliged for the interest displayed in my behalf, and am only too pleased to give you the addresses you desire. They are Amelia and F. H. Moreno, postoffice box $2$, Pomona, Los Angeles county. Should you see fit at any time to desire information of me, I will will only be too pleased to give it, anything consistent with the rules of the prison.

Very respectfully. FELIPE MORENO.

Moreno was sent to the prison for life from Contra Costa county for murder, being accused of the killing of Dr. Marsh, a well-known rancher among the early settlers of that county. The crime was said to have been committed Marsh. a well-known rancher among the early settlers of that county. The crime was said to have been committed thirty-five years ago.

For a long time a mystery hung over the murder. One morning the dead body of the Doctor was found in his own front yard, and no one knew who had taken his life. Several knife wounds in the body, however, showed the method employed by the assassin. but there were no clews discovered at that time which revealed his identity. but there were no clews discovered at that time which revealed his identity. The first circumstance that threw any light upon the case was the sudden departure from that county of Felipe Moreno, a young farm hand who had been employed in the vicinity of Dr. Marsh's residence. No one seemed to know where he had gone or what motive had impelled him to leave so suddenly. But as the officers continued their investigations they became quite well investigations they became quite well satisfied that Moreno had fled to avoid disclosures which would have led to his arrest for the murder of Dr. Marsh. Moreno had a young companion named Orevus, with whom he had been very intimate. They had worked to-gether a great deal and were known to be inseparable friends. gether a great deal and were known to be inseparable friends. Shortly after Moreno's departure Orevus also disap-peared. It was then that facts were brought to light showing that Orevus had worked for Dr. Marsh and that he had a claim against Marsh for $250 for wages, and he had complained bitterly to several acquaintances of Marsh's failure to pay him. These facts were carefully worked up and the result was that fully worked up and the result was that Orevus was hunted down, found in San José and arrested for the murder. Orevus, knowing that Moreno was well out of the way, turned State's evidence, and with the aid of a friend named Garcia, succeeded in having the accusation of the crime transferred to Moreno, who was known to have taken refuge in Mexico. Moreno remained in that country for ten years. He returned in 1866, and was promptly arrested for the murder of Marsh. Upon the evidence of Orevus and Garcia he was convicted and sent to San Quentin for life, and Orevus was allowed to go free.

There are many people living in the county where the deed was committed who believe that Moreno did not kill Dr. Marsh—that his crime is not greater than an accessory before the fact.

Moreno has been in prison ever since and is the pioneer "con" of that insti-tution. Through the courtesy of Capt. Edgar, a San Francisco Post reporter was permitted to meet Moreno the other day. When he appeared in the cap-tain's office his face wore a look of great astonishment, occasioned no doubt at the strange announcement that there was anyone in the wide world that wanted to see him. He is a Mexican of medium height and build. He has the dark skin belonging to natives of his country, but his face is very mild and pleasant, and his eyes, though deeply sunkea from long confinement, are a handsome brown and look as gentle as a child's. There was a sad, hopeless look in them, however, that comes from a life that promises nothing but prison stripes and stone walls. Capt. Edgar spoke to him kindly. "Moreno, here is astonishment, occasioned no doubt as spoke to him kindly. "Moreno, here is a gentleman who wishes to talk to "A man who wishes to speak to me." he said, and there was a long pause be tween each word. "Who can want any thing of me?"

The reporter asked him something about the killing of Dr. Marsh. "I can only say," the reply came promptly, "that I no kill him." Orevus

FRIDAY MORNING CLUB.

The School Question Again Before the Body for Discussion.

The Result of the Recent Agitation-Criticism on the High School Principal Denied-"Darkest England."

At the meeting of the Friday Morning Club, yesterday morning, the school question was again brought up, and Mrs. Enderlein gave a review of the results of the agitation. She stated that twelve of the eighteen self-supporting and discarded teachers have been re elected to their positions, showing that the cause of the first action was insufficient.

She expressed the idea that the club hould express its appreciation of the courtesy of the board in recognizing the tone of public sentiment, and she recommended that the ladies still interest themselves in school matters and the cause of teachers, insisting upon the full investigation of any charge against a teacher. She gave due credit to the spirit of the board in all it had done to remedy the wrongs.

It was moved that a committee be appointed to draft fitting resolutions expressing these sentiments and Mrs.

Enderlein was appointed its chairman.
Miss Dunham spoke in reply to an article in a morning paper in which the principal of the High school was censured by a pupil. The article referred to a change that had been made in the constitution of the Star and Crescent constitution of the Star and Crescent Society. She stated that the society was only a part of the school as is the department of mathematics, Latin and science, and not independent of it.
That whatever was for the good of the school as a whole, it was desirable to retain, and whatever resulted unfavorably to the school was best stricken out.
That the changes made had received the most careful and lengthy considerathe most careful and lengthy considerathe most careful and lengthy considera-tion by every member of the faculty, having been considered critically last year before school closed. Miss Dunham held that the sentiment expressed was only that of a very small minority. Most will condemn both the sentiment and its expression in the public press and feel that the highest honor of the school is assailed by those who are not its best and most loyal representatives.

The subject proper for the considera tion of the club was "Darkest England."

Dr. Lummis opened the discussion gland."

Dr. Lummis opened the discussion with a review of Booth's book, and was followed by Mrs. Enderlin and Mrs. Mitchell, both of whom presented papers on the Salvation Army, which were full of information, and awakened deep interest, not felt before, in these self-sacrificing people, the value of whose sacrificing people, the value of whose work among the slums of our cities cannot be estimated.

At 6:10 o'clock last night the Southern Pacific local train reached this city from Puente, and had on board the body side of that station by a freight train some time during the afternoon. The tears started from his eyes now.

Traveling back over long years to the time when he was young and free seemed to take him into another world distinct from that encompassed by the four walls of the prison.

"No," he said, "it is so long ago that I can not think back to it. I remember to admit the hand. The interior is cleaned out, the ripe grapes placed in-firmly. The pumpkins are then put in a cool place, and the grapes retain their freshness for a long time. Careful selection of the pumpkin is requisite, the common field pumpkin, however, being well adapted to the purpose.

These events are near at hand. Where will the Antichrist show himself? And from what nationality? He is described in Rev. xili: 2 as a "beast with two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon." John saw this beast as "he stood upon the sand of the sea." Daniel specifies that he shall come up out of Alexander's old domain in the latter time of their kingdom." (viii: 23.-27.) Scott comments: "The Mohammedan delusion is here pointed out and not that of the Papacy. "In all probability the two delusions will be determined precisely at the same time." "In And he adds: "The Papal kingdoms or whatever power shall succeed them may help to destroy the Mohammedan power and be in part destroyed by it. doctrine of the Pontiff at Rome. The prophesies just as clearly indicate the Greek Church as the great, final persecuting and destroying power as they have indicated Rome in its days of Papal grandeur and absolutism.

Daniel was shown by the angel's explanations the four great kingdoms: The Assyrian then existing: the subsequent Medo-Persian; the Grecian under Alexander; and the Roman. The last-named was to be divided into ten kingdoms and in its duration the Papacy was to rise. When John wrote, at Patmos, Greece, in A.D. 96, the Roman Empire was at the summit of power, and he described also the beast with seven heads and ten horns representing the fourth kingdom of Daniel, inclusive of the Roman kings. The heads meant separate forms of government. The fifth head meant a new form—Rome as a republic. The sixth head as the empire, though Rambaud says the Russians claimed to be the sixth head, or form of perors of Constantinople emperors of Constantinopie.

The dual form of imperial government—at Rome and Constantinopie—which existed for so many centuries, gave place to the seventh form under the Pope, who assumed (and retains to this day) the imperial title, "Pontifex Maximus." With all its vast powers the Creek Church existed supreme in the Greek Church existed supreme in the Greek Church existed supreme in Asia, Africa and parts of Europe from 869 until the capture of Constantinople in 1453; and it was permitted by the Turks to retain all its worship and its machinery and powers under its own bishops until—1513. Then the Turks no longer tolerated it, and it was protected, fostered and built up by the rising Empire of Russia, whose Czar assumed the position which the Byzantive emperors had for over 1000 years maintained from Constantinople. The Czar became the despotic head of both Czar became the despotic head of both distinct from all the others—and yet part of the seventh originally, in fact its essence. It is to be the last on which destroys mankind and is then destroyed. John tells us as plainly as the human mind could desire for clearly unhuman mind could desire for clearly understanding: "There are seven kings—five are fallen, and one is and the other is not yet come. And the beast that was and is not seven he is the eighth, and is of the seven and an other is and goeth into perdiction!"

When John wrote that the Assyrtan, When John wrote that the Assyrian, Medo-Persian, Grecian and Roman kings had reigned and then the Republic, all of which "five are fallen." The empire then in power was described "one is," and the Papacy as "the other is not yet come" the seventh. The eighth is Russia under the Greek Church and will of the seven!" and the ruler is Paul's "is of the seven;" and the ruler is Paul's "son of perdition," which "goeth into perdition."

The text of John, Revelations xiii, The text of John, Revelations xiii, will more clearly convey the interpretation thereof: "And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and I saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon its horns-tencrowns and upon his head the name of blasphemy. And I saw one of its heads as it were wounded to death at the world wound was healed; and all the world wondered after the beast."

The angel explained to Daniel, who

The angel explained to Daniel, who saw the same beast. The ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall arise; and another shall rise after them and he shall be diverse from the first, and he shall subdue three kings."

This culminated when the Pope assumed the third kingdom—the Exarchate of Ravenna.

This first beast represented the power the system—the government which hould be supreme under its various eads. John saw the Anti-christ as heads. "another beast coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon."

He is to have all the powers of his predecessors, and is to enfore his system, the Greek Church—successor and twin of the Latin Church; as John describes: "And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the beast, whose deadly wound was healed."

The Papacy has run its course, the wonder of the world, the supreme arbiter, the most powerful and absolute monarchy which ever ruled, for the Pope commanded both soul and body, Its fall has been such as no other kingdom has witnessed since the world be gan. And John described it perfectly in the year 96—1800 years ago: "The beast which had the wound by a sword for and did live."

Not only its destruction, but that it was done by force and by a sword. And yet that it "did live." What other race or kingdom has been conquered and ruled over by a foreign power and then resumed its former condition or any influence whatever! Egypt, Rome, Assyria, Greece, what are they! Mere names of the past, whose ruins attest their grandeur and their fall! The Papul power, losing its dominions, van eyes of a man and a mouth specific great things." (vii-8.)

"I beheld and the same horn made war with the saints and prevailed against them until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was given to the came, and judgment was given to the world. It was supreme in wealth and grandeur still lives and rules as the Supreme Spiritual Kingdom of the age actual sway and uncontested absolut-ism. This head—the seventh—has been wounded to death" in the overthrow of its past dominion and the destruction of its temporal power. Yet the miracle of the eighth head, which is and was a part "of the seventh," brings the apparent dead again into life and vigor and despotism greater than before. In its dual capacity as the church at Rome and Constantinople, (the imperial head, the sixth, not extinct until 1453;) the years we have 1897 as the date of its release, which will come with Russian supremacy and the absorption of the Turkish Empire.

Daniel said: "From the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away and the abomination that maketh desolate set up there shall be a thousand, two hundred and ninety days." Mahomet raised his standard in 607 and the addition of the number gives the date—1897.

The Papal rise dates from the same year with Mahomet, 606-7. And they both appear now togo into decadence together—Rome disposessed, and Turkey tending toward complete extinction of temporal power. But while this has been increasing in power and numbers as the Latin Church has progressed downward. The Czar of Russia is the successor and supreme absolute head of the Greek Church, coming down regularly in all its abuses and nersecutions from the favorite sway. The utter disruption came when there was added to the creed by the Latins one word "filioque"—("and the son")—the Greek from the favorite as the successor and supreme absolute head of the creed by the Latins one word "filioque"—("and the son")—the Greeks from the favorite as the call direction to the Metropolitan Bishop—the Patriarch—who could do nothing except by the Empire of suthority and consent. They had effected the seizure of the engine by stealing from the Union lines into the enemy's territory disguised as citizens, and having been taken in their borrowed plumage were condemned as spies. Eight died on the scaffold June 18, 1982, and while the remainder, fourteen in number, lay in fail under military guard expect-ing the same dismal fate, the "telegraph" whispered that nooses were preparing for them. As they looked for no mercy at the hands of their captors they were not at all morbid about showing the tender at-tribute, for they were in the heart of the Confederacy, fourteen against the million in arms between them and their own kind.

So one afternoon while they were being fed under the personal direction of the jailer—a Union man at heart—they seized and gagged the unspecting man, snatched his keys away an unlocked all the apartments, freeing another batch of unfortunities than rou in the splittary guards. nates, then ran to the military guards, overpowered and beat and stabbed them with their own weapons, vaulted a 10-foot fence and took to their heels in the open country. The subsequent experiences of two of the latter in reaching some spot where the star spangled banner still waved, is told in this chapter substantially as given in the published narrative of one of the pair—"The Adventures of Alf Wilson" (National Tribune, Washington, publishers). The story will prove good reading for both "Yank" and "Johnny," and can hurt the feelings of none at this late day, not even those of the fellows who, were outwitted by the runaways on their independent journey from Atlanta to the sea.

No time was lost upon discussions of the ethics of boat pro prietorship; a stone soon smashed the con-necting fink between the craft and its last owner, and in a trice two highly tickled tramps were knocking their knees together and patting "jubas" with their bare feet as they glided away praying that they might never meet the victim of their lar-point on they hoped to find the river free to the gulf.

They reluctantly abandoned their faithful friend, and for three days clambered over desolate mountains, cheered only by the beating rays of the sun. Wood was so weak that his companion had to lead him. Their feet were bruised and cut on the stones and their sufferings altogether became nearly unbearable. Again they were about to give up the struggle when they saw in the distance a town that they supposed to be Columbus, Ga. From that point on they hoped to find the river free to the guilf.

A wide detour took them past the city, and on reaching the river again they stumbled upon a party of workmen constructing a Confederate ram. In the vicinity they found an old rowboat, which they confiscated, only to find it badly a-leak. But it floated them down stream into a next of word skiff, moored along where. nest of good skiffs moored along shore, and they quickly swapped for a better one. Just as they pushed off again the owner of the boats came in sight and began to express his opinions in strong language. Thinking that his anger was too lofty for such a little thing as a boat they determined to give him better excuse for it, and so cut all his boats adrift, and while he followed them down stream they rowed up against the current. The angry man got help, caught his boats and started in pursuit of the audacious robbers. Fortunately an island in the middle of the river enabled the runaways to dodge pursuit and nest of good skiffs moored along shore abled the runaways to dodge pursuit and turn back unseen, and go their way re

The pair were now confident of reaching the gulf if they could hold out against hunger. This was becoming a serious thing. To add to their distress they saw that they were on the northern bank of an-other river flowing into the Chattahoochee, other river flowing into the Chattahoochee, probably the Flint, and so could get no farther without a boat. They found a dry hummock and passed a woeful night. Hunger, with all its horrors, was preferable to being stranded in a swamp without means to continue their journey.

A day was passed wandering about the awamp, and at nightfall they saw a boat across the Chattahoochee. Some limbs and driftwood were spliced together with grapevines, to serve as a raft, and with this Wilson, half sunk in the water, managed to get across. To his joy the new boat was the best of all, and without a single qualim of conscience, now that the joke gle qualm of conscience, now that the joke was on some one else, he confiscated it, took Wood on board and started full speed

When hunger pressed again Wood re-mained behind to guard the boat while Wilson foraged the shore. He didn't get much that was edible, but finally found some fish lines and hooks, and the problem of living was solved. Fish was abundant. Although compelled to devour it raw, they ate large quantities, and doubtless the find of fishing tackle saved their lives. Farther down stream they secured matches, and down stream they secured matches, and later on a quabitity of sweet potatoes. They kindled a fire in a spot of primeval wildness and rousted and broiled and ate. Wilson says the only drawback to happiness was the fear that the banquet might be too much for them. He determined to be too much for them. He determined to draw the line when they had eaten enough for eight men, and persuaded Wood to hold up a spell and cook for future needs. After piling up a stack of roasted sweet potatoes and broiled fish they surveyed their stock, and it looked so good that they fell to and ate some more. Then they slept, and after that resumed the ours.

are not left lying about so recklessly as rowboats, and they set out in their slight skiff upon a voyage that would have appalled them, but for the fact that they courted death on the ocean in preference to the doom that lay behind them. Should the sea swallow them it would be a fate worthy of brave men and their enemies would be outwitted. The water was so rough that the skilf sank out of view of passing vessels, and after rowing beyond sight of land they reached the long, bare island that shelters the harbor late in the afternoon. They made for that and lit upon an oyster bed, which absorbed all attention for a time.

Shortly they noticed, beyond the island, what appeared to be a clump of bare trees, and a little later, to their joy, made out smokestacks among the trees. Next the old flag lazily swing into view and the happy fellows could hardly restrain the impu se to jump into the water and try to swim to the fleet. They rowed swiftly to the nearest gamboat and were soon drawn up the ship's ladder, nearly maked, except for a scant covering of swamp moss that had replaced their worn out garments. They were forlorn looking vagaionds indeed, but the very daring of their voyage to sea in an open boat confirmed their remarkable story and their welcome by the fleet officers was as hearry as the occasion demanded.

Uses of Old English Gravestones.

Uses of Old English Gravestones. Old grave slabs are sometimes to be seen used up in our old churches in an odd manner, showing that our forefathers, in these instances at least, had but small regard for relies of the kind. There was one gard for reles of the kind. There was one fine slab, with a handsome cross incised upon it, observed cut into lengths and made into a water table, to throw off the rain on the roof of Alhwick church. An other in the same edifice may be seen made into the lintel of a clerestory window. In the south aisle of Morpeth church another is made into a lintel.

A portion of the shaft of a cross carved with Saxon ornament was made into the stem of a font, dated 1684, in Rothbury church. In this way many fragments have been handed down to us that might otherwise have dissppeared altogether.—Gentleman's Magazine.

A woman wastrying to induce General Sherman to use his influence for her son in order that he might be given a place in the army, for which, however, he had shown no particular fitness. "His father was in the army," said the urgent mother. "and so were his grandfatter and his great grandfather, and it seems as if he ought to follow the line." "Hin! Three generations in the army," said the general. "Don't, you think, madam, that it is about time for one member of the family to work for a living?"—Boston Beacon.

A QUAINT CUSTOM

Where the Washing of Feet as a Religious Ceremony Still Survives. Ceremony Still Survives.

Civilization in its onward march has swept away from this country many of the peculiar customs and ceremonies of half a century ago, but there is no truer rule than that "there is an exception to every rule," and accordingly many outlandish practices are still in vogue in sparsely settled parts of the Union. Every section of country has something uncouth or old fashioned within its borders, to which a few of the old inhabitants will cling, but if they are all as harmless as a ceremony if they are all as harmless as a ceremony still being occasionally performed in certain parts of the south no one is injured.

In the section alluded to, which embraces Georgia, the Carolinas and northern Alabama, is a small and widely scattered religious sect known as "Hard Shell," or anti-missionary Bantitis, whose custom of wash. ligious sect kirown as "Hard Shell," or anti-missionary Baptists, whose custom of wash-ing one another's feet is worth noting on the score of novelty if nothing else. The operation is one which always attracts a crowd. With the increase of schools in the country, where these churches are invariably situated, the practice is fast dving out however, and in a short time will doubtles

This denomination claims to be the prim tive Baptist church and traces its origin directly to John the Baptist. It was in 1837 that the Georgia "Flard Shells" with drew from the orthodox Baptist church on drew from the orthodox Baptist church on account of a difference in opinion on the subject of foreign missions, and so bitter were they against this work that they declared in lufancy against all forms of missionary teaching. Tract societies, Sunday schools, temperance and Bible organizations fell under the edict which went forth when they declared themselves the primitive church and began to wash each other's feet during their religious meetings. In Middleton, Ga., a paper is published by monthly in the interests of this sect, and the late editor, Gilbert Beebe, is said to have been a very brilliant writer. At any the late enter, Gilbert Beebe, is said to have been a very brilliant writer. At any rate, when he went to Georgia to preach every member of the church in the neigh borhood would go to see him. His sons now run the paper, which takes no adver

The crowning glory of their religion consists in carrying out the biblical injunction, "Ye call me Master and Lord and ye say well; for so I am. If I am then your Lord and Master have washed your feet, ye ought also to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example that ye should do as I have done to you."

The washing process is exceedingly simple, the women sitting on one side of the church and the men on the other. At the conclusion of the service basins are brought conclusion of the service basins are brought to the front of the church, and with them to the front of the church, and with them buckets of water and towels. When all is ready the women march in groups up to the front bench on their side of the church, and the men the same on their side. Half of the group of each side sit down and remove their shoes and stockings and the remainder wash their feet in a semiagony of ralizing former correct any deviate here. remainder wash their feet in a semiagony of religious fervor, carefully drying them after the process. This is continued until all have had their feet washed—those who sat down first always washing immedi-ately afterward the feet of those who performed a like service for them.

The ceremony differs in various parts of the section in which the "Hard Shells" are found, but as it always provokes a spirit of levity on the part of the ever presenterowd of spectators, only the old people now engage in it.—New York World.

The objects from the Jeannette drifted in three years from the New Siberian islands to the west coast of Greenland. If we assume that they required one year for the drift southward from latitude 80 degs, north, on the east coast of Greenland, only two years remain for the rest of the Journey, and this requires a speed of no more than two nautical miles in every twenty-four hours. This does not seem too high a rate when we remember that the Jeannette rate when we remember that the Jeannette drifted at the same speed during the last balf year of her drifting, and that in the last days before she sank she drifted at a much higher speed, which sometimes reached even eight nautical miles every twenty-four hours. It cannot therefore be considered improbable that we should reach open water on this side of the pole within try ware after our start from the within two years after our start from the Siberian side, and if we take provisions for five years we may consider that we have an ample margin.—Dr. Fridtjof Nansen in Los Angeles county has, during the past two or three years, assumed a much more respectable position among the producing sections of the Union, but still falls far short of whatshe should have produced. It has always been a matter of surprise to the visiting Easterners that Los Angeles should to so large an extent be an importer of farm products from the East. Since the collapse of the not-to-be-regretted boom the amount of truck import has been much less than heretofore, but the present season gives indications that the Los Angeles consumer is going to ask the assistance of his Kansas neighbor for the turkey for the aldermanic table on feast days and for the cheese to carry in his little tin pail on ordinary days. There has been an increase in the amount of products of the dairy and poultry yard and the smoke-house, but the increase of population has apparently almost kept pace with the producer, so that the shortage promises to be almost as great as heretofore. The California farmer evidently has yet to learn that it is very well worth his while to look after the variety of things which may be disposed of in the home market, even if he has an enormous field of barley or beans or potatoes, which may come near making him ricn if the crop turns out well and prices do not drop.

Advices from New York say that a carload of California raisins to be sold with the guarantee of 'good as any," nor was it as good as many other lines. The movement in California prunes is estimated at 250 carloads. The past ten days the market has stiffened considerably. For sizes, 60s to 90s, sold in boxes at 8c, delivered five sizes, 5

THE ITATA CASE.

- Judge Ross's Decision on the Catton Matter.

The Chilean Vice-Consul will Not Have to Testify.

Several More Witnesses for the Government Examined.

Yesterday's Proceedings of the Supreme tinued-General Court News -Today's Calendar.

The courtroom of the United States . & District Court was crowded to excess when Judge Ross took his seat on the bench at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morn ing, and called the case against Richard L. Trumbull and George A. Burt, the agents of the Chilean "Congressional" party, charged with having violated the neutrality laws.

After Clerk Owen had called the roll of the jury, the Court delivered its decision upon the question raised by Vice Consul Catton and Attorney Craig of San Francisco as to the former being compelled to testify as a witness, in a lengthy written opinion.

The first few pages of the decision give a brief review of the present case, and refer to the request of Mr. Catton to be relieved from testifying. The court refers to the ground upon which the request is made, his privileges as a vice-consul, and that the circumstances of the present case are such as render it improper to require him to at-tend as a witness on the part of the prosecution. The Court mentions the contention of the Government that Mr. Catton ceased to be vice consul upon the overthrow of the government by which he was ac-credited, the Balmaceda government. The Court says he is unable to take the view of the Government counsel. refers to his presentation of his creden-tials in court issued by President Cleve-land in January. 1888, and then goes on to say that accepting Mr. Catton as the duly authorized and acting vice-consul of the Chilean government, does his position as such of itself entitle him to exemption from compulsory process to attend as a witness in the courts of the United States? It is very clear, continues the Court, that by the law of nations consuls and vice-consuls stand on a very different footing from am-ssadors and ministers. The latter bassadors and ministers. The latter are not amenable to either the civil or criminal jurisdiction of the country to which they are deputed; not so, how-sver, the former.

Authorities are quoted, after which the contention that such immunity attaches to the vice-consul of Chile by reason of the treaty concluded between the United States and that country or the 29th of April, 1882, is considered, and the sections of the treaty bearing on the case are quoted, Judge Ross going into the matter at length, and citing the case of Dillon, Consul of France, reported in 7 Sawyer, 561, which arose in 1854, which is quoted, which arose in 1854, which is quoted, and summing up as follows:

It will be seen that while the Court held in Dillon's case that the provision of the Constitution securing to accused in criminal prosecutions the right to have compulconstitution securing to accused in criminal prosecutions the right to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in their favor, does not authorize the issuing of such process to such consuls who, by express treaty, are not amenable to the process of the courts. The State Department of the Government contended that that provision overrides conflicting treaties, not embodying exceptions to the right guaranteed, recognized as such when the Constitution was framed, within which exceptions conrecognized as such which the Constitution was framed, within which exceptions consuls did not come. In the present case, however, the provision of the Constitution referred to in Dillon's case is not involved; for Mr. Catton has not been subponaed as a witness for the defendants, but on behalf of the prosecution. And if he is entitled, as in effect it is declared he is, by article 25 of the convention of 1832, and by the exquatur issued to him by the President, to the same privileges and immunities as are granted to the consuls of France, it would seem to follow that he is exempt from compulsory process to attend the court as a witness.

But for another reason I do not think he should be compelled to attend as a witness in this cause. The offenses with which the defendants stand charged are violations of the neutrality laws of the United States, and consist in the glving of aid to those was framed, within which exceptions and consist in the giving of aid to those who now constitute the established and recognized government of Chile. Having succeeded and become recognized, the act of that government from the commences recognized government of Chile. Having succeeded and become recognized, the acts of that government from the commencement of its existence will be upheld as those of an independent nation. (Williams vs. Bruffy, 96 U. S. 176). To require the representative of that government to appear and give testimony against those alleged to have aided its establishment, would not only be contrary to the principles upon which neutrality laws are based, but would strongly tend to give grave offense to the government now recognized by the United States and with which this Government happily is at peace.

The motion on behalf of the vice-consul is allowed.

The trial was then proceeded with, A E. Higgins, special Deputy Collector of

The Alliance Excursion to Long Beach Yesterday.

The Members the Guests of the Terminal Railroad People.

The Opening of the New Line to the Seashore.

Cordial Reception Tendered to the Visitors—Speeches and an Impromptu Banquet—Pleasant Time All 'Round.

There is at least one railroad in California that the Farmers' Alliance delegates, both male and female, will have a good word for, and that is the Los Angeles Terminal; and all on account of a little outing given them by General Manager Burnett yesterday afternoon.

The Alliance people have been here a week, but they were so busy up to yes-terday that they could not even think of pleasure, and when Manager Bur-nett proposed to give them an excur-sion over his new line to Long Beach, a distance of twenty-one miles through some of the finest country in Southern California, they jumped at the oppor-tunity, and to say that they enjoyed themselves would be drawing it mild. Fully 200 farmers and their wives, children and sweethearts gathered at the new Terminal depot on First street, just across the river, at 1 o'clock yes-terday afternoon, and each one was armed with a complimentary ticket from the railroad people.

Each face wore a happy smile, and it could be seen at a glance that all were could be seen at a glance that all were out for pleasure and recreation.

Promptly at 1 o'clock General Passenger and Ticket Agent Wincup appeared on the platform and a few seconds later the first passenger train ever un over the Terminal's new line to Long Beach was under way. There were nine coaches and each one was comfortably filled. The officers of the road and several prominent citizens took and several prominent citizens took seats in the rear car so that they would have a good view of the new road.

The road was cleared for the run and it was the intention of the engineer to make the trip in 30 minutes, the fast-est time ever made to Long Beach, but after he had gone three or four miles at the rate of fifty miles an hour Mr. Burnett called a halt and ordered him to go a little clower This him to go a little slower. This was done for the reason that farmers as a rule are not accustomed to galloping over a road as fast as railroad men de-light to go, and as many of them wished to view the country they were passing over, Mr. Burnett thought slower time would answer the purpose better.

As it was, the trip was made in fifty minutes, and everybody was perfectly satisfied with the ride to one of the finest beaches in Southern California. The road was only completed to Long Beach day before yesterday and work is being rushed on to San Pedro as rapidly as possible by Grant Bros., who can boast of having turned over to Mr. Bennett the finest piece of grading ever seen in the State. The road is almost in an air line to long Beach, and where it makes a turn the right and runs up the coast to outh San Pedro, or Rattlesnake Island, as it used to be called, the rails are of latest improved steel, with the very latest steel spikes, laid on heavy redwood ties over a road-bed that cannot be surpassed on the Coast.

The grades are nothing to speak of, and there are so few curves that the line is almost straight after the yards at the depot are left. The road is almost as level as a floor, and as soon as it settles it will be the fastest track year of the Miscouri Plicar and this is west of the Missouri River, and this is just what the Terminal people want, as they propose to make Long Beach one of the most popular watering places on the Coast, and propose to give the peo-ple a service never before equalled in this section.

Trains will be run in thirty minutes, and will be run at such hours that business men can join their families every night during the summer months.

When the train, pulled into Long Beach the whole city was out to meet the farmers, and they were given a reception that must have done their hearts good.

hearts good.

A band was also in waiting, and as the delegates left the train and formed in line they were cheered by sweet music and loud calls from the crowds on the sidewalk. An immense table loaded down with choice fruit had been arranged near the stopping place, and after speeches had been made by Mayor Lockheart, Rev. M. Webster of Long Beach and Mr. Dillon of the Alliance,

Beach and Mr. Dillon of the Alliance, the merry farmers were invited to partake, and for thirty minutes they enjoyed themselves at the table.

Then carriages were brought up, and all who did not care to stroll on the beach were given a ride about the city. The train started on its return trip at 5:30, and the jolly party was landed in the city a few minutes after 6 o'clock. At the depot the farmers gathered on the platform and gave the new road and its officers a round of cheers that could be heard for blocks around.

OCTOBER DAYS.

Breath of Frost, Scent of Woods and Color of Forest. [Forest and Stream.]

Fields as green as when the summer birds carôled above them, woods more gorgeous with innumerable hues and tints of ripening leaves than a blooming parterre, are spread beneath the azure sky, whose deepest color is reflected with intenser blue in lake and stream. In them against this color are set the scarlet and gold of every tree upon their brinks, the painted hills, the clear-cut mountain peaks, all downward point-ing to the depths of this nether sky. zephyr-wafted course, silver motes against the blue; and above them are the black cohorts of crows in their straggling retreat to softer climes. Now the dark column moves steadily onward, now veers in confusion from some suspected or discovered danger, or pauses to assail with a harsh clangor some sworn enemy of the sable brother

Their gray-clad smaller cousins, the jays, are for the most part silently in-dustrious among the gold and bronze of the beeches, flitting to and fro with flashes of blue as they gather mast, but now and then finding time to scold an intruder with an endless variety of disintruder with an endless variety of discordant outery.

How sharp the dark shadows are cut against the sunlit fields, and in their gloom how brightly shine the first fallen leaves and the starry bloom of the asters. In cloudy days, and even when rain is falling, the depths of the woods are not dark, for the bright foliage seems to give forth light and casts no shadows beneath the lowering sky.

The scarlet maples glow, the golden leaves of poplar and birch shine through the misty veil, and the deep purple of leaves of poplar and birch shine through the misty veil, and the deep purple of the ash glows as if it held a smouldering fire that the first breeze might fan into a flame, and through all this luminous leafage one may trace branch and twig as a wick in a candle flame. Only the evergreens are dark, as when they bear their steadfast green in the desolation of winter, and only they brood shadows.

In such weather the woodland air is laden with the light burden of odor, the faintly pungent aroma of the ripened faintly pungent aroma of the ripened leaves, more subtle than the scent of pine or fir, yet as apparent to the scent; as delightful and more rare, for in the bronze and gold, floats a finer odor than their common reek of ooze and sodden weeds—a spicy tang of Trost-ripened flags and the fainter breath of the landward border of ferns; and with these also is mingled the subtle pungency of the woodlands, where the pepperidge is burning out in a blaze of scarlet, and the yellow flame of the poplars flickers in the lightest breeze.

The air is of a temper neither too hot nor too cold, and in what is now rather the good gay wood than green wood, there are no longer pestering insects to worry the flesh and trouble the spirit.

The flies bask in half-torpid indoence, the tormenting whine of the mosquito is heard no more. Of insect life one hears little but the mellow drone of the bumble bee, the noontide chirk of the cricket and the husky rustle of the dragon fly's gazzy wing.

Take that beautiful but delicate flower the fuchsia-for instance. No one who has ever lived in the East need be who has ever lived in the East need be told what care is necessary to induce this plant, rarely more than a foot or eighteen inches in height to give forth a few blossoms during the short season in which it may be kept out of doors. How jealousy it is watched, and how carefully it is watered and tended! At the first cool breath of autumn, it is hurried under shelter; and if during the season a dozen blossoms have been per-hurried under shelter; and if during the season a dozen blossoms have been perfected, the labor and care are considered well rewarded.

Look at the rose geranium, for example. How many have nursed and coddled one of these plants through summer and winter to be rewarded with a growth of perhaps eighteen inches of limp stalk and a few stunted flowers. But in California—that is a different matter. A four years' growth here has matter. A four years' growth here has been known to result in an immense bush with a stem as large as your wrist and branches that covered the entire end of a cottage, reaching even to the roof, eighteen or twenty feet above the ground. There is never swiftlent frost. ground. There is never sufficient frost to injure it, and it keeps on growing and spreading and blooming year after year, until it becomes a dense mass of aromatic verdure and blossom.

Most delicate of all flowers in the and delicate of all nowers in the eastern garden is the heliotrope. The first breath of frost destroys it, and there is more difficulty in preserving it unharmed through the long winter months than almost any other flower. Down in Ventura is a hedge of these plants some six or seven feet in height and so dense as to be impenetrable, which has been growing with little care and no protection for years. It is cov-ered with a mass of the delicate flow-ers, whose perfume fills the air for blocks, and yet it is so familiar an ob-iect to the needle who who was it seven. ject to the people who pass it every day that they scarcely give it a second thought. What the Barber Sald. What the Barber Said.

This is what the barber said,
When he got me in the chair;
For he nearly talked me dead,
While he raked my visage bare—
Vainly striving to protest,
For he would not let me speak,
With his knee upon my cheek;
And his razor on my cheek:

Boston's won the pennant, ehf Anson must be off his base; Still he hadn't ought to kick Long as he got second place. Wonder if they'll play a match With the 'sociation team!' This is what the barber said: Baseball was his opening theme.

"Rather sad about Parnell!—
Didn't think he'd die so quick?—
All the Irish praise him now—
That's the way—It makes me sick.
First they hound him to the grave, Then they talk of him and weep-While I simulated sleep.

"Fassett's having lots to say, Going round upon the stump; Shouldn't wonder if you'd see Flower and Sheehan get the dump! Seems a case of hoss and hoss
When you speak of Hill and Platt—
This is what the barber said.
As he jabbered through his hat.

Other things he might have said, But I was unconscious then, And, although he woke me up, I pretended sleep again. Force of habit mades him talk, Even when he shaves the dead—Happy corpse that cannot hear,
Nor suffer what the barber said!

The Fruit Grower says that in several places in the East, Maryland peaches are being sold as California fruit.
